Confined Space Rescue Challenge '18
U.S.S North Carolina BB-55

May 18th 2018,

Greetings:

Fire and Rescue Concepts is pleased to announce that we are accepting registrations for our annual Confined Space Rescue Challenge. This confined space rescue challenge is designed for rescuers who have already be trained in confined space rescue but wish to put their skills to the test. The USS North Carolina provides to perfect setting for this training, by allowing the participants access to confined spaces that are normally off limits to the public. A few hours of this training will take place at night. We will also conduct a Highline Operation scenario from the superstructure to the bow of the ship. This is a great opportunity to meet and train with some of the best rescuers from all over.

We are working with a local hotel to provide a quality affordable rate so that the class can stay at the same location. Once registrations have been received, we will send out the hotel information, though you are not obligated to stay there. All training participants will receive certificates of training in accordance to OSHA 1910.146 and NFPA 350. Registrations may be turned in without payment, but please let us know the status of payments. All class spots will be filled by first come and first serve, but registrations with payments will take priority. We look forward to having you.

Deadline for registration and payments are due by August 31st. for the USS North Carolina Confined Space Rescue Challenge

All Checks can be made out to Fire and Rescue Concepts. We can accept credit cards. (Credit card processing fee will apply).

Please feel free to contact our office if you have any questions.
